A Message from

FR. CLINE

What did we do before cell phones? Once upon a time, we waited patiently in line to use a public phone. There were these things called “phone booths” on street corners and in office lobbies. Most had doors. You could shut them and quiet the noise and have a civilized conversation with a family member or a friend or the maître d’ at a restaurant to make a reservation. (I’m fairly sure all of this is true, because I’ve seen it in grainy black and white movies they show on TCM.)

Those were the good old days.

Now, each of us is a walking phone booth. We have devices that clip on our belts or fit into a purse. We wear earbuds that are almost invisible. We pass people, walking alone on the street, who were having animated conversations with no one in particular.

Cell phones are just the beginning. We are constantly sending each other texts or tweets from devices small enough to fit in the palm of our hand. My smartphone sends emails, manages my calendar, I can access social media, and it even has GPS to help me in case I get lost. It also has games, plays music and does duty as a camera. There’s even an app to help me find my keys.

Maybe all this is a great step forward for humanity.

But I’m having a hard time believing it.

Since we can do so much, anywhere, anytime, with so little effort, we have forgotten that obscure and much-overlooked virtue: patience. We no longer have to schedule a phone call or wait for the mail; anything can be done whenever it’s convenient.

As we journey along with our merger, we need to realize that things won’t just happen instantaneously, we all need to work on having patience. St. Catherine learned from God and passes on to us, that impatience is a form of selfishness. We are not happy that we don’t get what we want, when we want it, and how we like it. We get agitated, upset, antsy, because our needs are not being fulfilled.

This is truly not God-centered and something that needs to be worked on.

And bit by bit, I fear, we are forgetting some of the most exquisite human emotions. Things like anticipation. And apprehension. The agonizing worry that goes with waiting. The necessity of biding time. As a result, time has become less meaningful—and we no longer have to wait for the answer to a question or the resolution of a problem. Do it now. We can. And we do.

This has a ripple effect, I think, that can even touch our lives as Christians. We can become less willing to accommodate another’s imperfections, less able to see the value of someone else’s time. It can even impact how we pray. We can be tempted to fill the periodic moments of silence with chatter. Who has time to converse with God, when there’s a voice or text message on your phone waiting to be answered?

The inconvenient truth is this isn’t how we were made to live. And because communication has become so instantaneous and spontaneous, I think we run the risk of losing a vital part of our humanity. The part that listens and that waits for an answer. The part that anticipates. The part that delays gratification, and satisfaction, and doesn’t demand it immediately.

I know my smartphone has made my life easier in many ways, but I also wish I could give it up for Lent. It would probably be a good spiritual exercise and teach me a few things about myself. It might make me more patient, more tolerant, more accepting.

It would certainly give me more to talk about with God, in my free time.

And frankly, my thumbs could use the rest.

Church Overseas Combined Collection

Catholics around the country have always responded to the needs of people everywhere. Next weekend, the Diocese of Youngstown will hold the Church Overseas Combined Collection in order to assist the Church in its ministries throughout the world. This combined collection supports four major overseas services: Catholic Relief Services (CRS), Holy Father/Peter's Pence, the Church in Central and Eastern Europe, and the Church in Latin America. Please remember, as we move toward the season of Lent, to support these important programs of charity in the Church. A second collection will be taken on January 25 & 26, 2025 to support this need.

Contribution Statements

If you would like to receive your 2024 contribution statements, please note that they will only be available upon request. To request your statements, kindly call the appropriate campus office and they will be mailed out to you.

Gospel Meditation A DEEPER UNDERSTANDING OF SCRIPTURE

Luke 1:1-4, 4:14-21

A young couple in my parish told me they were expecting their second child, a baby boy. I knew that their five-year old only child Emma had been desperately wanting to be a big sister for years, so I said, "Emma must have been so happy when you told her the news." "Actually," they said, "she burst into tears. She wanted a baby sister!" How often in life God wonderfully fulfills our desires and we are sad because we don't approve of the way he does it. We want to control the gift and the delivery method.

The same thing occurs in the Gospel this week when Jesus announces in his hometown that the promise of an Anointed One bringing glad tidings to the poor is "fulfilled in your hearing" (Luke 4:21). After a moment of elation, his fellow townsfolk realize this man is the way God is fulfilling his promises, and they erupt into a violent outburst. So Jesus departs. How sad for them.

Every single Sunday at Mass, including this one, some version of this happens to many of us. God's word announces the fulfillment of God's promises in Christ, and we easily overlook or disdain it. His way is almost never according to our narrow expectations. What's required of us is to set these aside, and to embrace a new openness to God's gifts, no matter how he wishes to give them. God is fulfilling his promises the way He likes — why be sad? — Father John Muir
